Robert Pierce alias George Ramsey, was arrested in St. Louis, on the 10th ult., charged with robbing the store of Price & Clark, Dawson, Ky., on the 10th ult., of jewelry and etc., amounting to several hundred dollars, and had an examining trial at Dawson, Friday. He confessed to having seen an unknown party emerge from the store house window on the night of the robbery, with value in hand and claimed that he demanded of the party what he was doing when the party dropped the value and ran. He further states that he picked up the value and finding it partially filled with jewelry, proceeded to enter the store where a light was still burning and obtaining watches and other valuables, left for St. Louis, his former home, where he was arrested. He was held over to await the action of the grand jury, and being unable to give the $500 bond required of him, was lodged in jail at Madisonville to await further action. The proof is sufficient to convict him without his own statement and he will certainly serve time in the penitentiary. He is a painter by trade and had been around Dawson, in a drunken condition, for several days before the robbery occurred. The value was secured when the arrest was made but has not been opened and it is not yet known how much of the stolen property, if any, will be recovered.

The two coal mining companies at Earlington and the L. & N. Railroad Company are having a large pond dug at that place. The pond will be 15 feet deep and will cover about 90 acres of land. The Kentuckian met Squire Warfield, Saturday. In the course of the conversation, he said: "The great curse of our country, and more especially of our county, is the fact that our officers do not realize that 'a public office is a public trust.' They do not seem to feel the existence of the higher moral sentiment of our community, and are led or driven by the grosser preferences of people of baser instincts." There is no question but that the Squire reduces a widespread public sentiment.

Judge McCarroll: "There ought to be a law compelling all business houses to record in the County Clerk's office, or to post conspicuously on their sign, the names of all the members of the firm. There is no end of litigation because large dealers have extended credit because of confidence in some silent partner and later it was discovered that the silent partner was no partner at all, but was used simply as a decoy. If a sign reads 'John Smith & Co.,' you ought to be able surely to find who the Co. is in the Clerk's office."

Rev. Robt. Nourse's Lecture.

The Chatauquan gave us the best lecture of the season Friday night—Rev. Robt. Nourse on "John and Jonathan." The speaker is a man of peculiar, though interesting, philosophy. His early locks and dignified pose remind one of Theodore Tilton, while his facial gymnastics smack strongly of the late John Raymond. He is a cross between a philosopher and a comedian, (one is uncertain whether the place of his nativity is Johnswain, Thomas Jefferson or Artemusward) but the jocularity of the latter never besmirches the dignity of the former.

His lecture was a series of contrasts, so to speak, between England and America. It was hard for the speaker to deliver himself from the prejudice in behalf of his native land, but this was only noticed in impassioned passages. His utterance was a little thick with the oratorical, but his diction was chaste and precise, his manner faultless, his impulse pure and redolent, and all the while one felt as if he had the chained spirit of an orator within him ready to break the shackles at any moment. The lecture was a mosaic curiously wrought. Wit, humor, practical sense, political wisdom, theology, philosophy and pathos came into sight with the shifting rapidity of kaleidoscope views. The audience applauded at every turn, and whether it was a burst of patriotic sentiment, or a quick thrust of practical penetration, or the jest of facial expression, the clatter of hands at once set in.

We have high hopes of the Chatauquan next year, the female contingency especially. God bless 'em, they have done what the men could not do, and the Kentuckian votes them three cheers and a tiger.

Ohio Valley Movements.

Mr. John Mills not a gentleman on the train Sunday, who is familiar with the O. V. secrets, who told him that the road has secured an entrance into Evansville and would begin at once to push their line south from Princeton. This is encouraging news, and we hope it may materialize.

Sells Brothers' Hippodrome and Circus.

By reference to advertising columns it will be seen that this most popular of all the tented exhibitions will be with us at an early date. It is praiseworthy and meritorious in each of its departments, and will commend itself to everybody as a respectable, reliable and artistic exhibition. The fulsome advertisements of shows in general seldom make good their promises, but with the Sells Brothers the rule is exceptional, and although their announcements read like a tale of the "Arabian Nights," the exhibition always verifies their claims. We speak by the card, for the Sells Brothers' show has been here before, and the impression is still fresh in our minds. We have seen a printed copy of Lander & Clark's brief in the case of Christian county vs. the L. & N. Railroad for back taxes. The brief shows the excellent legal ability of these gentlemen.

Gilliland & Armstrong will soon have their grist mill in operation on the corner of Seventh and Elm streets. The capacity of the mill will be 200 bushels per day.

Jarred Hawkins, col., has a peach tree loaded down with twin peaches, and another tree with quite a number of triplets on it. Truly this can be called "a good year for peaches."

The fine residence of Dr. Grady, at Trenton, caught fire from a defective fuse Saturday and burned, together with nearly all the contents. Loss, $7,000.

Wallace Warfield occupied John Hurmuth's position at Bush's during the illness of the latter. Mr. Hurmuth is now able to be out.

The farmers are very much in need of rain. The showers of yesterday were not sufficient to supply the demand.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Olvey, have taken rooms again at Dr. Hill's, on Main street.

A Bit of Philosophy.

SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

Isn't it time now for some of the journals to say something about John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home"? How could he have succeeded in writing tragedy, a man of his nature, pathos and classical tastes, just one little song that he throws into one of his polished dramas has survived all he did and wrote? because he felt it. I've heard man make a single remark when a boy that indicated the man in spite of 25 years of toil and labor to the contrary.

OSLER JOE.

STREET TALKS.

Cy Brown: "The Republicans will nominate Sherman and Hawley. We are going to run a candidate for Congress this time and the contest will be close. His name is already known to some of the ring masters. He can speak like a Greek orator and hustle like Laffoon. Watch out for him."

Dick Holford (Dick now wears an English beard and says darby, etc.) says, "Things are lovely at the track and there are some pretty scappers out there. The prospects for next Fall's Fair are flattering and the public may expect a display of live stock the like of which has never before been seen in this county."

Col. Burnett: "Elkton built her railroad to Guthrie and then leased it to the L. & N., and now the stockholders are reaping an annual dividend of about 12 per cent. Hopkinsville and Cadiz have voted $140,000 for a railroad, why can't they build it and lease and operate it in like manner?"

George Bradley, Constable: "The reason it is reported that prohibition is weakening is because the whiskey men are doing all the talking. I was at a country store last week in conversation with a party of gentlemen. One of them said he could name a hundred men who had changed over to whiskey. I challenged his statement and when forced to the issue he could name only one, and I subsequently found out he was mistaken about that one."

The Kentuckian met Squire Warfield, Saturday. In the course of the conversation, he said: "The great curse of our country, and more especially of our county, is the fact that our officers do not realize that 'a public office is a public trust.' We speak by the card, for the Sells Brothers' show has been here before, and the impression left by it, both with the press and with the public, justifies our assertions. This year it comes to us with the important augmentation of a Roman hippodrome, presented on an immense elliptic track, on which are faithfully reproduced the chariot, standing and Roman races of Caesar's day, in connection with the steeple chase and jockey races of our modern era. Other important addenda to the show are the world-famed trapper, hunter, scout and frontiersman, Capt. A. H. Bogardus, and his four equally remarkable sons, Captain Bogardus has been designated by the Indians as "The Man Who Shoots to Kill," and has general recognition as the wizard rifleman of the West, champion wing shot of the world and winner of 1,000 contests.
